

Fabulous Fantastical Shoe Shrines

Supply List

Ever wondered if those sleek, pointy Italian designer shoes could double as a mini shrine? No? Well, I certainly have!

It's time to raid your closets and unearth those fashionably painful relics for a higher purpose. In this uniquely sole-searching workshop, we'll turn neglected footwear into fashion-forward wall shrines. Whether you fancy crafting an Iconic Stiletto, a majestic Shoecophagus, or perhaps a cozy Loafer Lair is more your style—this class has a spot for every shoe and every soul.

Dust off those uncomfortable pointy-toed pumps or those loafers you loathe and prepare to heel your sole! Armed with paint, collage, and an assortment of found objects, you'll build, glue, and groove your way to a stylish shoe-shrine. Get ready to shrine your shoes... those boots aren't just made for walking.

Supply List

- Shoes...a variety but preferably stiffer shoes...probably not canvas or silk. Leather or faux leather would be great because they are more hardy and easier to build on.
- Paint brushes, a few detail or line brushes and some flat brushes in a few different sizes
- A variety of doodads and thingamajigs. You'll need a variety of found objects to choose from. The more the better. Here are a few suggestions:
  - Small figurines, dolls, doll parts.
  - Lenses – Magnifying glass lenses. Cheap ones can be found at dollar stores.
  - Frames – ideally you want oval or circular frames that are close to the size of the shoe openings.
- Thin gauge wire
- E-6000
- Aves Apoxie Clay <https://avesstudio.com/>
- Acrylic Latex Caulking (white) – ie Dap, Alex Plus. Modeling Paste and Molding Paste will work too.
- Collage material and paper ephemera
- Paint –
  - Titanium White, Carbon Black, Pthalo Blue, Pthalo Green, Quinacridone Red, Dioxazine Purple, Transparent Red Oxide, Nickel Azo Yellow, Matte Medium.
  - Any other colors you'd like to play with.
- Tools that will come in handy
  - Heat gun
